

Information related to the Coronavirus

We understand if the Coronavirus has raised questions and concerns for you as a tenant. Therefore, here is up-to-date information and recommendations if you have any thoughts, feel worried or wonder when you need to seek care.

According to the Public Health Authority, Folkhälsomyndigheten, the risk for spreading infection in Sweden is low, but the risk for new cases of the Corona infection in persons who have been infected abroad is considered high.

When do you need to seek care?

The countries that currently have some spread of the infection are China, South Korea, Iran and Northern Italy. If you have visited any of the affected areas and within 14 days you get fever, cough or respiratory problems, you should contact the health care via the Care Guide 1177 (Vårdguiden). You need to do this if you have been in contact with someone infected with the Coronavirus.

- It is important that you call 1177 first and not to go directly to a reception since there are routines for how you will be taken care of.
- If you feel ok you do not need to contact the health care, even if you have been in an area where people have gotten infected from the Coronavirus.
- If you have not been traveling in an area where people have been infected from the Coronavirus within the last 14 days, but you have similar symptoms? Then it is not likely that you have been infected. You can search for information at 1177.se for advice and for other diseases and regular pains such as the flu, fever, cold or cough.
